Clinical Resource Network Names Laurie Streling as Chief Financial Officer

Streling's expertise to help guide CRN's global expansion

Deerfield, IL, April 17, 2008 – Clinical Resource Network (CRN), the leading provider of in-home and alternate-site nursing services to facilitate the convenience, compliance and retention of clinical study patients, announced today the new hire of Laurie Streling as Chief Financial Officer (CFO).

“We are delighted to have Laurie join our team,” said Gail Adinamis, president, CRN. “Her deep knowledge base and experience make her a valuable addition to our executive team and integral to the continued expansion of our capabilities both in the U.S. and internationally.”

As CFO, Streling will work collaboratively with the CEO and executive team to develop a vision and a long-term strategy for the organization while maintaining responsibility for all fiscal and financial management aspects of CRN's operations. Streling will also offer leadership and coordination in the administrative, human resources, legal, and risk management efforts of the company.

Streling joined CRN from Hewitt Associates in Lincolnshire, IL, where she was CFO of Global Business Services and responsible for providing cost transparency into the shared services organization and building a shared services finance team. Previous positions include senior vice president of strategy, marketing & finance for the Johnson Group, an Altran Company in Chicago, IL, as well as CFO of WAN Technologies, Inc. in St. Louis, MO and State Finance Controller for Ameritech's landline companies

Streling received her Bachelor of Administration in accounting from Eastern Michigan University and her CPA license from the State of Michigan.
